

PS&H Welcomes Colin A. Coleman, Lawrence J. Sheh and Brian J. Reilly to the Firm

Established Massachusetts business lawyer and Managing Partner of Innovative Business Law Group, Colin A. Coleman, has joined Partridge Snow & Hahn as Partner in the Firm's Needham office. Coleman is joined by Of Counsel, Lawrence J. Sheh, and Associate, Brian J. Reilly.

"The addition of Colin and his team in Needham is a tremendous asset to our Firm," began Partridge Snow & Hahn Managing Partner, David Gilden. "This highly capable team of business lawyers will help expand our capabilities and provide further depth of service to our existing practices for clients in the Greater Boston area." Coleman continued, "Our business model at Innovative Business Law Group has always been to provide top notch service to our clients, and we have been able to do so for many years. Recently we've found the need to expand our services, and by joining with Partridge Snow & Hahn, we are able to accomplish this goal while providing better service to our existing clients."

For almost two decades, Coleman and his team at Innovative Business Law Group have worked with in-house counsel and closely-held companies, providing innovative and cost-effective solutions in areas including mergers and acquisitions, commercial lending, general corporate counsel, startups and partnerships. The team's capabilities add further depth to Partridge Snow & Hahn's strong Corporate, Litigation, and Real Estate Practices, and expand the Firm's presence in the Greater Boston area.
